The Journal of Feline Medicine and Surgery is an international journal, and the official journal of the International Society of Feline Medicine and the American Association of Feline Practitioners www.catvets.com.

It is published monthly in two formats.

The 'classic' editions (published in February, April, June, August, October and December) contain high quality original papers on all aspects of feline medicine and surgery, including relevant basic research. Manuscripts comprise a mix of original articles, short communications, case series, individual case reports or letters to the editor.

The 'clinical practice' editions (published in January, March, May, July, September and November) primarily contain commissioned opinionated review articles of direct relevance to feline clinical work. All submissions (including commissioned reviews and letters) are peer reviewed by the editors and selected referees.

An international news section provides information about ISFM, AAFP and other feline veterinary meetings, society news, selected product and other developments, and relevant issues from other publications and meetings.

Readership profile: Veterinary practitioners and researchers with an interest in feline medicine.
